"SHOOT TO KILL", SHERIFF MILLER TELLS FARMERS

Offers to Provide Them
Guns and Ammunition
To Stop Thievery

"Shoot the lead and you increase thievery" is the opinion of Sheriff Ward Miller and he so expressed it when interviewed by a delegation of South Dixon and Nelson farmers yesterday afternoon at the court house regarding activities of what appears to be a gang of fairly well organized thieves who have been operating extensively recently, gathering a collection of chickens and hogs. Farmers living within three miles of Dixon have suffered losses, the center of attack seemingly having been laid between the Dutch road and west of the Pump Factory road.

"Shoot to kill and to any of the farmers who are suffering losses from this, the lowest class of thieves known in the criminal world. I will say that if you do not have guns to carry on this campaign, come to my office and I will furnish you with them." This was the statement made by Sheriff Miller at the conclusion of the interview.

Receive Many Complaints

The sheriff stated that his office had been in receipt of numerous complaints from farmers this winter of chicken thefts and in some instances, that individuals have been seen. During the early spring, the taste of the thieves appears to have changed from poultry to pork, and hogs have been stolen. In one case a farmer residing not more than a mile from the city limits lost six hogs in one night. Others have lost one, two and three at intervals.

"We cannot patrol the farms looking for these thieves, but desire to assist and co-operate in the protection of property in so far as possible. I believe that these thieves are the work of a gang of worthless hoodlums who reside in the vicinity of Dixon and while they may be grown men they are exercising the full extent of their ability in stealing of chickens and pigs. I have told the farmers who have complained to me to shoot to kill, any persons caught wandering about their chicken houses or hog pens and have offered to furnish them with guns and ammunition if necessary. A six month's vacation at the Vandalla state work farm for those captured is the best remedy that I can think of to effect a permanent cure."

The above was the statement given out by the sheriff this morning when questioned as to the course of action he planned to take in eradicating this class of petty thievery in this locality.

REED COMMITTEE TO CONTINUE TO PROBE ELECTION

Will Ignore Congress' Failure to Continue Its Powers

BULLETIN

Washington, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Democratic senators in caucus today unanimously approved the decision of the Reed campaign investigating committee to go forward with its inquiry in any state it chose.

Washington, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Despite failure of the senate to sanction its continuance after adjournment, the Reed campaign funds investigating committee is going ahead with plans to hold further meetings.

As if on 37 hour fast, the committee already has held a post-congress session and by unanimous vote, ordered the impounding of ballots cast in four additional counties in Pennsylvania.

Senator Reed, democrat Missouri, chairman of the committee, contends it has full authority to act in the Pennsylvania election contest under a resolution adopted last January and tentative plans have been agreed upon to hold another meeting here March 25, when the question of opening the ballot boxes already brought here from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh may be decided.

Both Vare and Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois, whose primary campaign expenditures also have been inquired into by the Reed committee, have been placed on the senate payroll with the report by the committee that their credentials were in doubt. While counsel for Smith advised him that this action gave him a seat, the seating of both Smith and Vare was believed a question for the next congress to decide.

(Telegraph Special Service)
Rochelle, Ill., March 5.—George Webber, his son Wayne, and Glenn Durin, all of Rochelle, had narrow escapes from death or serious injury at an early hour this morning when the former's automobile was struck by an eastbound C. B. & Q. freight train on the crossing just east of the passenger station here, all three escaping any injury in a most peculiar accident.

The car had nearly cleared the tracks on the crossing when the cylinder on the freight engine struck the rear end of the auto, turning it over in the ditch along the right-of-way. The occupants were able to crawl out from the wreckage of the car, uninjured.

Members of the engine crew did not see the accident, but it was witnessed by the night operator at the depot, who flagged the train to a stop, while the investigation, which disclosed that no one was hurt, was made.

The crossing is protected by gates during daylight hours, but there is no gateman employed at night.

COOLIDGE WILL NOT CALL EXTRA SESSION SOLONS

Sees No Need, He Declares, After Adjournment Fri.

Washington, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Advised by President Coolidge that he didn't contemplate calling a special session of the seventieth congress, 469 senators and representatives today began their vacation following the death of the 69th.

Sixty-two, nine senators and 53 representatives, will not return next December, they either having retired to private life or entered other federal fields of endeavor.

An announcement that the President saw no necessity for a special session to consider the major bills that failed passage before the gavel fell yesterday, was made at the White House after adjournment.

While the legislation adopted had been generally beneficial to the country, in the President's opinion, he feels that congress had ample opportunity to put through other bills for which there was urgent need, but that failure of some of these does not develop an emergency warranting a special session.

The McFadden branch banking bill, the radio control measure, and the bill setting up the federal board of mediation in railroad labor disputes, were listed on the President's behalf as being among the more notable achievements of the 69th congress.

CHAMPS CLOSED SCHEDULE WITH GRAND VICTORY

D. H. S. Basket Shooters Show Form in Final Before Tournament

Dixon Ponies, 17; Lanark Lights, 13. Dixon Heavies, 25; Lanark Heavies, 11.

Outclassed by both experience and weight, the plucky Lanark basketball squad gave a good account of themselves last evening in the south side high school gymnasium, although suffering a double defeat. The last appearance of the Rock River Valley Conference basketball champions brought out a crowd which packed the seating capacity of the gym, and all were provided a good evening's entertainment.

The lightweights or Ponies celebrated their third victory of the season in defeating the Lanark Lights by a 17 to 13 score. Both teams were anxious and took long chance shots in an effort to increase their scores. Dixon played the best offensive game and the first quarter was the only one in which they were successful. The first team went through light practice with their opponents. Joe Gerdes shot within one point of making half of the Dixon scores, ringing the basket six times during the half he played. After the first quarter, Coach McMaisters began pulling his first string players off the floor and giving the substitutes a change.

In the third quarter, Joyce was the only member of the first squad on the floor and he was very ably assisted by second string players who carried on until the beginning of the final period when the original team took the floor again and warmed up again in the closing session, when the count stood 25 to 11 in Dixon's favor.

Warned of Need for Farm Hands for State

A half dozen who were resting between a half and a full day in this local camp, were being held for planting the crops at the state work farm at Vandalla and experienced hands are needed. This notice was sufficient for some, who boarded the next train. Police of several cities in this local area are waging a campaign against the transients at this time.

Two of the prisoners were from manning high pressure pumps, from which the raiders trailed the long stretch of hose to a battery of tanks in the apartment building. The tanks already had received whiskey which federal agents estimated was worth $200,000.

NEW STORY ADDED TO HEROIC TALES OF OCEAN TODAY

Sister Ship Answered
Call of Distress:
Crew is Saved

New York, March 5.—(AP)—A new story of heroism was added to the annals of the sea today in the rescue of 40 of the fire-swept Spanish freighter Cabo Hatteras, 150 miles off New York.

The Cabo Torres, sister ship of the doomed vessel, triggered underwater beacons from the blackness of the night to range itself alongside the burning ship when the nearest aid was belied miles away.

How Captain Zalvidea and his crew picked up their storm tossed life boats after they had abandoned their ship was tersely told in a radio message. The Cabo Torres stood by the burning ship through the night in hope of salvaging her today.

"S O S, make all speed. We are afire," was the first message that came through the air shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A dozen vessels rushed to her aid.

Broadcasting Stopped

Radio broadcasting along the Atlantic coast was halted to leave the air free while land stations and ships stood by to await further word from the ship.

After a wait of two hours, came the message:

"Life boat picked up with 13 men." It was sent by the Cabo Torres.

The Japanese freighter Washington Maru was speeding in the position given by the burning ship and covered the 26 miles in about three hours.

Her news, however, proved disappointing. "Have arrived at position of Cabo Hatteras and searched for one hour but can find nothing," she wirelessed.

Told of Rescue

Another wait of almost two hours followed and then, at 9:22 came the news that told of another victory over the sea. "Torres has saved all. Washington Maru will proceed to destination."

A few minutes later the wireless of the Washington Maru relayed some additional details from the Cabo Torres.

"Cabo Hatteras completely abandoned. Crew picked up by Cabo Torres, standing by."

The Cabo Hatteras was abandoned between Fire Island and Montauk Point, She left Malaga, Spain, Feb. 7, for New York and Philadelphia, and was due here yesterday. She was 6,100 tons and 355 feet long.

Mellett, Canton editor, was taken into the jury room in the court house today for a secret conference with Prosecutor Harter. The court stenographer was summoned soon after Mazer was brought into the room. Judge Adler was not present, but was in the court room adjoining.

Reports that Mazer was "telling all" about the killing gained credence. None of the court officials would talk.

Just before Mazer was taken into the conference, R. L. Mills, who represented Pat McDermott and Ben Rudner, already convicted of the killing, and who was the attorney of record for Mazer, announced his withdrawal from the case.

Counsel Quits

"I'm through," was all he said. He refused to give the reason for his action, saying he did not "wish to embarrass anyone."

The conference ended shortly after noon.

Prosecutor Harter refused to say what had happened in the hour and a half he was locked in the room with Mazer.

"We are not downcast," he said with a broad smile.

The grand jury will be recalled Tuesday, he added, for further consideration of the Mellett case.

MOULDERS FORM
WOMEN'S HATS:
BORN IN FOUNDRY
Shapes are First in Metal: Process of

Chicago, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Mud, brimstone, iron kettles and shovels are as necessary to the making of women's hats as silks from the east, feathers from Africa or lace from southern Europe.

The American-made hats which rival the chic chapeaus of Parisian design come into being through foundries, which might seem to the layman to be turning out manhole covers or windmill pumps.

The designer pictures her hat on paper, and the picture goes to the artisans and laborers who make a plaster model from which a metal die is cast. Without these metal moulds, the hats would lack style and shape, according to R. H. Harvey, president of a large hat company.

A woman worker takes a bank of braid from Milan, dampens it to make it pliable, and dries it. The free end of the braid goes into a spindle and deft fingers start sewing at the top of the crown, guiding the braid through the stitching process and stopping often to fit the crown to the plaster model.

The soft crown is taken to the metal mould for subjection to heat and pressure, hydraulic presses giving it smoothness and uniform surface. The brim is heated on another mould, an airtight bag is placed over it, and the air is withdrawn. The vacuum and resulting suction hold the brim snugly over the mould, giving it the shape which fashion calls for.

Several coats of hat varnish, and the hat goes to the designer for adornment. When finally it appears in the shop window, it carries no suggestion of the mechanic labor which wrought its character into shapeless straw and felt.

THE WINDING HIGHWAY
(By Mabel Nagel)

I know a place where the evening sky rivals the rainbow's hue. Where green and gold and purple blend into a royal blue. The setting sun is a crimson ball slowly seeking to rest. And the place is the winding highway, as I journey toward the west.

Now God is the wonderful artist who paints this picture rare. And as I journey onward I marvel that it can be. And that all of this glorious sunset is painted for you and me.

When lo, the scene is changing and the painting, seen from afar, is dim—for the curtain of night descends, and is pinned in place by stars.

And so it is with my life. It would seem, as I journey along the way, And follow the winding highway of life toward the end of another day—

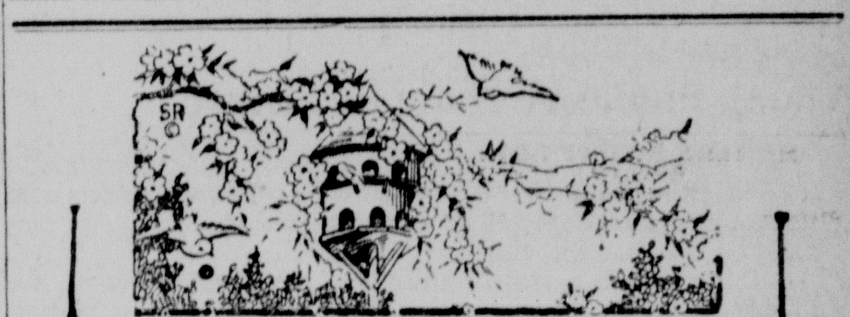

For at dawn I view the sunrise then at evening the sunset's glow. And I trust that my evening sunset of life will have colors of rainbow hue. To brighten my way, as the curtain falls, to hide this world from my view.

And then I would that the sunrise, with rainbow colors fair, Would greet me as I enter into morning Over There.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Baked apples, oatmeal, thin cream, crisp whole wheat toast, tomato omelet, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Casserole of spinach, brown bread and butter, jelly roll, milk, tea.

DINNER—Stuffed pork tenderloin with apple rings, browned sweet potatoes, mashed turnips, fresh rhubarb pie, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

A child under six years of age should not be served the dinner meat. A sweet potato should be put aside before browning and a dish of stewed rhubarb take the place of the pie for his dinner. Turnips are excellent for small children.

Casserole of Spinach
Two pounds spinach, 4 tablespoons chopped fine broiled bacon, 1/2 to 1 cup fine dried bread crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Wash spinach through many waters and cook in the water that clings to the leaves. Chop very fine and add bacon. Season with salt and pepper and add enough crumbs to absorb all excess water on the spinach. Put mixture into a well buttered casserole and make four depressions with a large spoon. Slip a raw egg into each depression and put into a moderate oven until the eggs begin to set. Cover with grated cheese and put into a very hot oven or under the gas flame in the broiler to melt and slightly brown the cheese and finish cooking the eggs. Serve in the casserole.

The spinach mixture can also be put into individual baking dishes if preferred.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

"Why weren't you here to meet us?" This says one of the charming Mrs. Roosevelt who went hunting wild game in darkest jungles with their respective husbands, Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, was the greeting given them when, traveling half way around the world to meet their hunter husbands, they arrived at the trying spot a few hours later than their said husbands.

The husbands, publicly announces Mrs. Roosevelt, saw no reason why the wives should not have taken an earlier steamer which would have made them wait 30 days for the husbands, rather than make the husbands wait eight hours for the wives. Not all wives can get vengeance by telling the world about their husbands' pettiness. Most of them must suffer in silence, so this Mrs. hasn't so much to sulk about!

BOOZE FOR THE BALL
The sweet young thing revolved before the family in her Artistic Ball gown. She was to be the ace of spades. Black satin fashioned the thigh-length skirt, and a white velvet ace of spades made the bodice. There was no back. Just a cut-out patch between the shoulder blades. Rolling down the skirt side was a white velvet cascade. "How pretty!" said grandmother, caressing the soft folds, and thinking, no doubt, of the blue ribbons that cascaded down her own white muslin party dress of the long ago. "Yes, and how handy!" said the girl, "see, folks, this funny-business is really pockets for the booze," and she y. t. plunged her hands into the capacious depths of the velvet cascade on the hip.

"Don't mind having your presence taken for granted," intimates Mrs. Joseph Conrad, widow of the great novelist, in a recently published list of "don'ts for wives of artists. Then follows a list of "don'ts" which, reproach him, and make scenes. Don't fail to be devoted and tactful. Don't fail to give him the proper working environment, etc." Her rules are only those which are always given to wives of men who change the mother heart that beats in every woman's breast for her children, or the admiring adoration she has for her real mate—unless he kills it.

She is no puzzle at all. They color gold given now, but it is still gold. I added sentimentally. The gentleman smiled. "I guess you're right," he said. "It's not a mountain—just a little two-inch-high mole hill after all!"

"But don't try the lawn roller on it," I suggested. "Besides, moles may be blind, but they have intuition."

But he was talking to his next neighbor.

CONSERVATION STATE'S

Natural Resources

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois men and women who are working for conservation of the state's natural resources will plan how they can better correlate their efforts at a dinner here March 9.

The affair will be under auspices of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and will be held in the club rooms of the Chicago Women's Club. The dinner will take the place of the usual annual exhibit held by the federation and other organizations.

The Preservation of the Wild Flower Society, and federated clubs such as the Prairie Out of Door League and Sunflower are working with the state federation in plans for the gathering. Mrs. J. D. McKinney of Alton will preside as state chairman, and Mrs. Theron Colton, well known naturalist and chairman of the forest and garden department of the Chicago Women's Club will have charge of the program.

Mrs. McKinney will give a talk on her department work emphasizing the need to preserve timber, to care for birds and their needs, and to establish gardens. She is offering a prize eighth grade pupils of the state for the best essay of not more than 500 words on "Birds." Essays are to be submitted to the district conservation chairman, who in turn will submit the best two for the state prize. The time is April 15th. Names of prize winners will be announced at the convention at Danville May 17-20.

Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, state president will be guest of honor. Speakers will include Miss Lena McCauley of the Chicago Evening Post, and O. N. Schantz, president of the Illinois Audubon Society. Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, past president of the I. F. W. C. will talk on the relation of garden clubs to the state federation. Miss Harriet George, U. of C. will talk under the auspices of the Illinois chapter of the Preservation of Wild Flower Society on the raising of wild flower seeds.

The dinner was planned with reference to the annual meeting of the board of the federation March 10 so that out of two members could attend. At the board meeting for the annual convention to be held in May will be developed. One feature of the convention will be the department of work conferences, instead of the usual conference luncheon. A part of the day will be devoted to work conferences where delegates may choose their department and get some practical knowledge for a working basis for next year.

Mrs. Wm. Kastner

Happily Surprised

Fifteen ladies, friends of Mrs. William Kastner, went to her home, 1009 Long avenue yesterday afternoon and proceeded to assist her in celebrating her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Kastner had her papers on and was just about to leave home on an errand when the guests arrived happily surprising her. A delicious luncheon was served during the afternoon and a tempting birthday cake graced the table, also the lovely lavender hyacinth plant, one of Mrs. Kastner's many nice birthday gifts. The guests departed at 5 o'clock after a very pleasant afternoon, wishing Mrs. Kastner many happy returns of the day.

Birthday Celebrated

Mrs. Omer Drew, 705 N. Chicago avenue, delightedly entertained Thursday evening a group of friends at five hundred, as a surprise to her husband, whose birthday was Thursday.

There were six tables at five hundred. Miss Florence Jones of Ambly winning the ladies' favor for high score; while Joseph Payne was awarded the gentlemen's favor for high score.

A delicious birthday luncheon was served at the quarter tables, the decorations being in lavender and white, the flowers and favors carrying out the pretty idea. The guests assembled made Mr. Drew a handsome gift, which they presented with best wishes for happiness.

KNOT HOLE NEWS

VOL. 1. MARCH 5, 1927. NO. 35

Suppose you read about that Kentucky woman who is bringing suit against some guy for stealing 100 kisses. Seems to us it took her a long time to wake up to the fact she was being robbed.

We can give you some fencing facts that will interest you. If you are going to make some fence this spring or summer by all means see us. We handle the American Field & Poultry Fencing, also American Barb Wire, and this line deserves your acquaintance.

Our barber tells us about somebody he knew who took a ride a short time ago on one of those sight-seeing busses out in San Francisco. When they reached a big hill the man with the megaphone requested the passengers to hold their grips in their hands to lighten the load. Everybody did!

Then as the grade got steeper, he asked them to stand up. And everybody did! What would you have done? So would we.

You might just as well have a good fence as a poor one. The good one actually is easier built than the poor one, and in the main, costs no more. If you are planning some new fence, come in and talk with us. We handle the American Fence Line.

Here's our view on the tax question: What was pay is too much, and what other people pay is not enough. What's your view?

Is there anybody at your house who always forgets to close the door? There's one at ours.

He! "Edison says that four hours sleep

a night is enough for anybody."

She. "That's what our baby thinks."

American Zinc-clad fence is guaranteed to last longer than any other fence on the market. We will furnish new American fence, free of charge, if shown where any other wire lasts longer under the same conditions.

OLD MASTERS

Eat thou and drink; tomorrow thou shalt die.

Surely the earth, that's wise being very old.

Needs not our help. Then loose me, love, and hold.

Thy sultry hair up from my face; that I

May pour for thee this golden wine, brim-high.

Till round the glass thy fingers glow like gold.

We'll drown all hours; thy song, while hours are tolled.

Shall leap, as fountains veil the changing sky.

Now kiss, and think that there are really those.

My own high-bosomed beauty, who increase

Vain gold, vain lore, and yet might choose our way!

Through many years they toll; then on a day

They die not—for their life was death—but cease;

And round their narrow lips the white foam falls.

—Dante Gabriel Rossetti: from "The House of Life."

Missionary Society

Was Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson entertained the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church at the parsonage Thursday evening.

This was an unusual meeting as the twenty-six honorary members were special guests, and the program was presented by the men. The subject of the Gospel was the deplorable condition of women in Moslem lands and the Power of the Gospel in changing their lives.

Methodist Missions of the Moslems was treated by Rev. Mr. Carlson.

Mrs. Deming Hunt rendered two vocal solos in pleasing manner, entitled, "Be Thou With Me," and "Three Fishermen."

Odd bits of up-to-date missionary news were given by several members and a very interesting letter from Miss Miriam Robinson of Ashton, who is teaching in a Methodist school in Panama City, was read by her friend, Mrs. E. J. Randall. A letter from N. W. Branch Officers relating present conditions in China and urging us to not fail the missionaries and Chinese Christians in this crisis, was read by Miss Bessie Decker.

A happy social hour followed the program, with doughnuts and coffee served by the ladies. Some one requested music and Mrs. Ernest Cook kindly played a piano number. There were nearly seventy in attendance and one new member was added to the roll. With the "Good Night" words to their pastor and family all departed feeling that the evening had been well spent.

THE VEIL SCIENCE CANNOT RAISE.

Scientists at the University of California, after years of experimenting, have perfected an artificially-created substance with which they can bring life to the unfertilized eggs of sea urchins.

Thus the test tube substitutes for mother nature, and the laboratory reaches up to take its place beside the whirling nebulae in the cosmic scheme.

The scientific substitute, however, is not quite as good as the real thing. The artificially-created sea urchins do not live very long—not more than a day or so. Something is lacking. Cocytin, the laboratory concoction that gives them life, lacks something. What it is the scientists do not know. But the sea urchins do not live.

Thus, once again, science finds a blank wall at the end of its most searching study. Further efforts doubtless will be made to perfect the product of the test tube; but, without knowing anything about the steps that are being taken, we respectfully predict that they will fail.

For life—need we remind ourselves again?—is not something that can be reduced to a chemist's formula; not even the life of a humble sea urchin.

What it is we do not know. Our scientists cannot tell us. Generation after generation, learned men have advanced to tackle the problem; one after another they have been baffled. If we could but understand, completely, the steps in the growth and blossoming of a common dandelion we would know all that there is to be known; but we can never find them out.

A famous scientist, a few years ago, tried to define life. "Life," he said, "is a flame burning in water."

Ah, yes. Many thanks, sir. It is a beautiful definition; but the substance of it was known ages ago, when white-gowned Chaldeans paced their brick towers and meditated, under the Mesopotamian moon, on life and death and the world. "A flame burning in water"—yes; but the flame was lighted aeons and aeons ago, a spark, maybe, struck off from some cosmic anvil on which the milky way was hammered into shape.

We know that the flame burns, and that it is beautiful. But we cannot light it ourselves, nor can we ever understand it. We see only that it is surrounded with mystery and beauty, and that there is in it something too divine for any microscope or test tube to unravel.

WE CAN'T TEACH 'EM A THING.

The Chinese, it is said, are incapable of self-government; hence it is the white man's duty to maintain concessions and courts and armed camps on Chinese territory.

Maybe it's so. But listen to this: In Tsing Tau a certain editor was a violent critic of the Chinese police administration. Did the police take violent measures against him? Ah, no. They gave him a job as "police advisor." Now the criticism is stopped.

No American politician could have taught them anything smoother than that. Who says they can't govern themselves? There was a trick turned in the most approved American manner.

THE MEANEST MAN.

Controversy rages in the newspapers over the identity of the meanest man. A Kansas town reports the lowest form of male as one who invited people to his home, then stole the oil from the crankcases of their cars. . . . In Kentucky a woman is seeking a divorce from her husband because he held the baby upside down. . . . Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg have begun to suspect the honor belongs to Mr. Borah, the correspondent. . . . A movie actress tells the world he's the one who refused to contest her divorce suit. . . . Wonder whom Peggy Joyce would nominate?

Co-eds at the University of Pennsylvania who have foot defects will get no diplomas, says a dispatch. That explains away our last lingering doubt as to where the seat of mentality really lies. . . . Does college education pay after all? The only two robberies we ever heard of co-eds attempting were dismal failures. . . . Women will have hoofs in a couple of centuries if they keep wearing the same kind of shoes, a doctor tells us. But never worry about that—they never wear the same kind of shoes twice. . . . One mystery is cleared up anyhow—the suicides reveal why they're called finishing schools.

Don't shoot until you can see the white of their eyes, is the old order. But they say that in Nicaragua that's just 1000 miles away.

The teachers were given salary raises recently, says a newspaper dispatch. The item happened to be from Wellington, New Zealand, however.

A San Francisco man is teaching his hens to crate their eggs as they lay them. He refuses to count his eggs before they are boxed.

A school of catfish attacked bathers in South America. Well, you couldn't blame the Indians for fighting back either.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The little children of the Shoe showed all the Tintins much to do. They played all sorts of games and had a dandy time all day. When nighttime came, they went to bed, and so retiring Scouty said, "We'll get up early in the morn, and then be on our way."

So, very early at the dawn, the Tintins were up and gone. They thanked the good old lady in the Shoe for fun they'd had. Said she, "Come back again some day, when all of you are 'round this way. My children seem to like you, and I'm sure 'twill make them glad."

Then, down the road the Tintins went. An hour or so in play was spent, as they walked slowly through some woods, and up a winding hill. The birds would twitter in the trees and squirrels jumped up around their knees. The friendliness of everything gave all of them a thrill.

Said Scouty, "I am quite perplexed. I wonder who will turn up next."

(The Tintins visit the Crooked Man's crooked house in the next story.)

SAINT and SINNER

Bob's excitement when Faith told him what she had learned about Phil, the beggar, was a precious balm to the hurt which Churchill's rudeness and incredulity had dealt her overcharged heart.

"We've got something to work on, at last," Bob exclaimed. "So the old boy's name is Schultz—Philip Schultz. I'll get his address tomorrow from his peddler's license. And we'll plan our hand alone, darling. I have a hunch that we can unravel this mystery without Churchill."

"I hate Churchill!" Faith cried. "I don't believe he cares two cents for Cherry or anyone else. All he's interested in is his fee."

"Oh, he wants to get an acquittal, of course," Bob reassured her. "It would be a big feather in his cap. Banning is strutting these days. Open and shut case, he says. Our chance is that he is so sure of his case that he won't exert himself. He'll want to string the trial out as long as possible and make it as sensational as possible, since the press will be flashing his name from one end of the country to the other."

"Do you know whether Churchill's investigator—Crawell, didn't you say his name is?—has found a clue to the writer of the threatening letter sent Mr. Cluny from prison?" Faith asked.

"Churchill says he found three men who just about fill the bill. But there is one whose initials are B, and so far they haven't been able to pin a motive on any of them. Churchill said one of them had been bedridden with tuberculosis; another got out of Atlanta six months ago, and has moved to New York. His alibi is apparently beyond question. The third is a business man who lives in town, practically above suspicion. Churchill thinks the letter was sent by a crank, that it has no significance whatever."

The next morning Faith was unable to leave the house, for Joy's temperature had suddenly risen at an alarming rate, and pneumonia threatened. Bob telephoned while Faith was rubbing the little chest of the sick child with aromatic oils.

"Don't leave me, Faith. I feel awful. I can't breathe hardly," Joy moaned.

"Just to answer the telephone, precious," Faith reassured her tenderly.

"I've checked up on the license clerk, honey," Bob told her. "And, say, there's something else to set your Sherlock wits working. Old Phil renewed his peddler's license in June, and the handwriting is quite different from that on his license of the year before."

"What kind of handwriting is it?" Faith asked breathlessly, afraid to entertain the tremendous idea that was knocking for admittance. "That of an educated man?"

"Sorry to disappoint you, honey," Bob answered with a slight chuckle.

That Stomach of Yours!

Fort Wayne, Ind.—"I was terribly rundown in health. I had indigestion and gastric stomach trouble. My food did not digest, would just seem to lie in a lump, gas would form causing distress. I was anemic, grew thin and pale and weak. I had no strength or ambition. I doctored but got no better. My druggist advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it helped to make good red blood, relieved me of indigestion and stomach trouble and I have had no trouble from these ailments since."—Mrs. Ina Waldschmidt, 439 Poplar St.

as if he had guessed the cause of her excitement. "But it's a queer, childish scrawl, such as I might do with my left hand. Maybe old Phil's right hand became so crippled with rheumatism that he had to learn to write with his left. But anyway, I've found out his address, or at least, the address he gave in June, and I'm going down to Peach Tree Hollow this afternoon. I'll be around for supper, if you'll let me bring the makings."

Signing Independent Petition Doesn't Bar Voting in Primaries

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Attorney General Carlstrom held in an opinion to James A. Light, state's attorney at Bloomington, that an elector who signed the petition of an independent candidate for office may vote in republican or democratic primaries without invalidating the petition.

"If it should appear," Light wrote, "that anyone signing an independent's petition has voted either the republican or democratic ticket at the primary, would that in any way invalidate his election as an independent candidate?"

In answer the attorney general said the primary election law recognizes political parties and protects each of them in the nomination of its candidates for public office, by preventing electors affiliated with one political party, from participating in the primary of another political party and also forbids electors, who have signed the petition of an independent candidate for any office for which candidates for nomination are to be voted for at such primary, from participating in such primary.

"I am of the opinion," said the attorney general, "that if the independent petition is signed by the parties, prior to their having voted for the republican or democratic candidate at the primary, their voting such ticket would not invalidate the election of an independent candidate, as they had a right to sign such a petition at that time."

Good Thoughts for Good People

For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God.

Paul.

Great men are they who see that spiritual is stronger than any material force, that thoughts rule the world.

Emerson.

Who overcomes By force, hath overcome but half his foe.

Milton.

The central thought of religion is of a peace that is beyond the unrest of life, of a harmony that transcends all desires, of a unity of purpose which works through all the conflict of the forces of nature, and the still more intense conflict of the wills of men.

Edward Caird.

To prove that divine power is available to destroy even the direct claims of evil is itself the greatest of all victories. The world is but one's material sense of existence. As though is spiritualized and reality appears, materiality—that is, the world—will fade, ultimately to disappear; for spirit and its manifestation is all.

Lanark Evangelist At Grand Revival

The revival meetings at Grand Detour will continue next week, with the preaching done by Evangelist Frank A. Sward of Lanark, since Mr. Cleaver of Dixon who began them, and has preached throughout this week, cannot give more time, in justice to his own preparations in the Dixon church for Pre-Easter services, in which he will be assisted by Pastor Jas. O. Moore of Sterling, beginning Sunday, April 3rd. Miss Elizabeth Cleaver in Eureka College is recovering rapidly from her accident of a week ago, but Mrs. Cleaver will remain with her for probably another week.

Mr. Sward will come to familiar territory, in taking up this meeting, for it was in Grand Detour, thirty years or more back, that his remarkable career as an evangelist really started, when he was persuaded to take charge of the singing in a revival there, with the veteran minister, Elder Joseph Wright, who had large part in inaugurating the Grand Detour work. The thousands of recruits won into the kingdom during the wisdom that flowed testify well as to the wisdom of the older man's call and the younger man's response. And now in the maturity of a wide success, he will again witness for the Gospel where he entered the work.

Evangelist Sward's first sermon will be Monday evening, seven-thirty. A big delegation from Dixon, already assured for the first service, will, with the good local attendance the meetings have been enjoying, tax the capacity of the beautiful little chapel in Grand Detour, which is now the surviving edifice for worship in the once prosperous town, that is still in use. Real improvements make it most comfortable especially the splendid heat and electric lights. Special music Monday night will be furnished from the Dixon Christian choir. Evangelist Sward is a gifted chorus-leader, and sometimes supplements his sermons by solo numbers very effectively.

METHODISTS WILL HOLD SESSION IN DEKALB, MARCH 15

Joliet-Dixon District Meeting Has Been Arranged For

A program of unusual interest has been prepared for the Joliet-Dixon district meeting to be held in the Methodist church in DeKalb on Tuesday, March 15. It is the plan to make the day one of whole hearted devotion, to the end, that the several churches of the district may receive inspiration for their work, and it is expected that the attendance will be large and representative of the entire district.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Chicago will give the principal address of the convention. Prof. Norman S. Richardson, of the religious education department of Northwestern University at Evanston, Rev. John Gordon, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church of Rockford, and Editor Dan B. Brummitt of the Northwestern Christian Advocate will be headliners of the program.

The morning devotional and inspirational period will begin at 10 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. E. C. Lumadon of Dixon, district superintendent, who will preside at the convention and who will give the address at the fellowship supper at 6:30 o'clock, in response to a request that he be the speaker on that occasion.

The morning service, beginning at 11 o'clock, is to be devotional throughout, with organ prelude, hymn, prayer, scripture, responsive reading and the Gloria Patri and benediction, in addition to the sermon on "The Kinship of Jesus in the Life of the Minister," by Dr. Gordon of Rockford. Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson of this city will furnish special music.

The afternoon program will be somewhat in the nature of a symposium. Rev. W. H. Tope will lead the devotions at 1:30 and at 1:45 o'clock Prof. Richardson will give an address on "Religious Education." District Cooperation will be discussed from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m., the subject being introduced in regard to evangelism by Rev. W. H. Ake, and in regard to world service by Rev. Samuel Taylor of the First Methodist church of Sterling.

Discussion of "Worship Hours" will be divided into three sub-heads, from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m., Rev. L. L. Hammit introducing "The Morning Worship Hour," Rev. H. E. Rompel "The Evening Service," and Rev. A.

W. Mohs, "The Midweek Meeting."

Editor Brummitt will give an address on "The Religious Press" at 4:30 p. m. and the afternoon session will close at 5 o'clock. Bishop Hughes will give his address at 8 p. m., which will be the closing event of a full day of instruction and inspiration. It is expected that a number of Lee county people will attend the convention.

Winners of Sterling and Princeton Meetings are Favored

The drawings for the sectional basketball tournament to be held at the Sterling township high school on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 17th, 18th and 19th, have been announced by C. W. Witten of DeKalb, manager of the Illinois High School Athletic association.

The winners of the Savanna and Freeport district tournaments will meet in game one at 7:30 o'clock on Thursday, March 17th. The winners of the Rock Island and DeKalb tournament will meet in game two at 8:30 o'clock, the same evening. On Friday evening at 7:30 the winner of the Sterling and Princeton district meets will play game three. At 8:30 o'clock the winners of game one and two will play. Saturday evening the winners of Sterling-Princeton districts will play winners of game four for championship. This game will be played at 8:30 o'clock, provided a consolation game is arranged between the losers of the Friday night games.

The drawings strongly favor the Sterling-Princeton district winners as these teams will have to play but two games, while the other teams will have to play three games.

Jessie E. Day, director of athletics of the Davenport high school, and Arthur Swedberg of Augustana college have been appointed as the sectional tourney officials and this insures capable officiating.

Hoppe Defeated Last Night by French Star

Washington, Mar. 5—(AP)—The fifth day of the 13.2 ballline world's billiard championship tournament today found four of the seven entrants with unmarred records.

The Belgian southpaw, Edouard Horemans, tops the list with two victories, while Veltor Cochran of California, Erich Hagelacher of Germany and Jake Schafer of Chicago, a former champion, each have one win to their credit.

By virtue of the upset victory of Felix Grange of France, last night, Willie Hoppe of New York, defending his title, went into a tie with Grange with one victory and one defeat.

Grange swept Hoppe off his feet for the first four frames last night, piling up a lead of 215 to 2, which the American could not overcome. The Frenchman won 490 to 384.

Two of "Big Ten" Games are "Crucial"

Chicago, Mar. 5—(AP)—For the first time since the opening of the season, all Western Conference basketball teams are engaged tonight in Big Ten games and four of them tonight's contests are "crucial." Michigan, the leader by winning tonight and again Monday has a chance to gain an undisputed conference championship. The Wolverines' opponent tonight is Chicago and on Monday, Iowa.

Indiana and Purdue all must win tonight to keep a hold on the slim prospect of a tie for the title if Michigan falters. The other six teams are out of the running for the first honors.

Indiana and Purdue have comparatively easy prospects facing teams that won but a single game each this winter, Northwestern and Minnesota.

Members of the Cincinnati National League team training at Orlando, have adopted the game of "dart ball" a diversion which serves at the same time to put the athletes on edge for the more serious work.

George Burns, Indian first sacker and holder of the world's record for two base hits, is back in trim at Lakeland, Fla., training camp.

Bill Carrigan, Red Sox manager, who came back to manage Boston's American Leaguers after ten years retirement, must look for a new first baseman since he has just learned that Todt had an operation for appendicitis last month.

Jacques Fournier of the Braves has been clouting the ball at St. Petersburg. His triple and double helped the regulars beat the rookies yesterday.

SENATORS HAVE 21 PITCHERS IN TRAINING FIELD

Only Three of Harris' Pennant Winning Boxmen Left

BY BRYAN BELL

Tampa, Fla., Mar. 5—(AP)—Washington plus its hopes for a third American League pennant on two between season developments, the assembly of a varied assortment of pitching talent and the addition of Tris Speaker. The Senators have 21 pitchers. There are pitchers everywhere, long and short, right and left handed and coming from every section of the country.

President Clark Griffith, once a star pitcher in his own right, has felt the lure of the battle royal of the mound to such an extent that he has turned his back on his beloved golf course, to watch the pitchers do their stuff.

That Tris Speaker has "made the club" is the statement of Griffith and Manager Buckey Harris. "Spoke" has as much enthusiasm as any youngster on the club. Speaker will be sort of captain of the outfield, working with Goose Goslin in left and Sam Rice in right.

Myer, a youngster who fell heir to Roger Peckinpaugh's shortstop place, is a hard hitter and will be the regular shortstop.

Harris has a good substitute base man in Stewart, who is one of the game's really great base runners. The catching will be in the hands of Muddy Ruel, Bennett Tate and John Berger, an iron armed recruit from the Eastern league.

The big shakeup is in the pitching staff. Only three pitchers, Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie and Fred Marberry are left over from the pennant winning team of two years ago. Chandler and Murray joined the team last year. Of the numerous youngsters Horace Lizenbee seems to have definitely won a place.

Baptist and Lutheran Young Men Play Tonight

The Baptist Young People's Union will play a basketball game this evening at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock, with the young men of the Lutheran church as their opponents. Much interest is evidenced in this game and there will no doubt be a good attendance.

NEW N. W. COACH

DICK HANLEY

Evanston, Ill. — Dick Hanley, Northwestern university's new football coach has had one of the most outstanding successes of a major grid mentor during his tenure of service at the Haskell Indian school. He developed into one of the greatest quarterbacks in the country during his playing days at Washington State in 1915, '16, '17 and '19. During the war he served as captain of Marines. Hanley is an exponent of the Pop Warner system of football.

Upon graduation he coached the Pendleton, Ore., high school team for two years, producing two state championship seasons. He then went to Haskell where in five years his teams played sixty-five games, an average of thirteen a season. They won fifty games, tied four and lost nine, a winning percentage of .52. The Indians piled up 1,500 points in that period against their opponents 400.

Last fall the team won every game but one, a 21 to 21 tie with Benton College, champions of the West. The eleven scored 558 points to its opponents 83. Important victories were gained against Michigan State, 49 to 7; Hacknell, 35 to 0; and Tulsa, 27 to 7.

Coch Hanley will take charge of the Wildcats at spring practice which is to start shortly after March 1.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CARRETT FOLSON is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNAVY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSON, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pocketed Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fanatic of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the missing one. A steel club engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folson's room.

Croydon Sears' initials are discovered in a notebook of Folson's and Pelton thinks his uncle had been doing some blackmailing. ROBIN SEARS, Croydon's son, is worried now that suspicion is resting on his father. RIGGS tells him he has learned that Croydon Sears had purchased a third dagger.

The elder Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. Anastasia, questioning MADELINE BARROW, wife of NED BARROW, upsets her and Madeleine goes to her room to break down and sob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

"DEAREST," and Angel Fair smoothed the short, ruffled locks, "don't mind that horrid woman. I don't wonder she gets on your nerves. Forget her; she isn't worth worrying about."

"I know it," Madeline Harrow said, raising her head a little. "I know it—b-b-but oh, Angel, I wish she'd go away from here— or else that w-w-we could."

"She won't go—you couldn't expect that. But we can all go. Ned will say yes to that in a minute if you ask him."

"I know it—bless his dear old darling heart. But he loves it here. Oh, Angel, I am so miserable."

"Why, Maddy, dear," and the girl was truly puzzled, "what is it? You can't be so deeply affected by that man's death—a stranger to you—"

"I know. No, it isn't that—oh, never mind, Angel. Don't let's discuss it. Just help me pull myself together and get into shape."

Glad at this opportunity to help Angel brushed her friend's hair and brought her makeup box and a fresh handkerchief and upon a transformation had been wrought that resulted in a very lovely and serene Mrs. Ned Barron who went downstairs again ready for her luncheon.

Dan Pelton crossed the room and paused at the table where Carmelita and Mrs. Barnaby sat with Roger Neville.

"Golf today?" he inquired, for he had rather decidedly attached himself to the train of the beautiful Carmelita.

"Yes, if you like," she smiled at him, and then invited him to sit with them for luncheon.

"I will, gladly," he said, taking the fourth chair. "My adored aunt has gone off with friends, and I'm a wolf and a stray."

Even as he seated himself he saw Madeline Barron enter the dining room and join her own group of friends.

"Yes, she is lovely," said Carmelita, intercepting his glance.

"Yes, if you like," she smiled at him, and then invited him to sit with them for luncheon.

"I will, gladly," he said, taking the fourth chair. "My adored aunt has gone off with friends, and I'm a wolf and a stray."

CHERRY MAY SOON BE ONLY MEMORY OF BIG TRAGEDY

Ill-Fated Mine, Where 267
Died in 1909, May be Closed

Cherry — Ghostly "Dead Man's Row," for 15 years a grim memorial to one of America's greatest mine disasters, today forebodes the desolate fate which may overtake all of Cherry if a coal strike comes on April 1.

There are 89 houses in "Dead Man's Row," all of them empty hulks. When the great mine fire took a toll of 267 lives at Cherry on Nov. 13, 1909, these homes were touched more heavily than any others, and bereaved families moved out.

Now the railroad company which operates the mine has dismantled its Granville mine nearby, and has openly intimated that if suspension of work causes the closing of the mine it will be closed permanently.

If that happens, the thousand remaining inhabitants will quit the village which once was a town of 28 saloons. Few of the residents stay in Cherry for love of the town, and few of them go near "Dead Man's Row," where the wind now moans and whistles through the rifts where doors and windows have been, and where credulous folk of the village declare, the spirits of the ill-fated tenants hover.

If Cherry becomes a deserted village, Francisco Zanzibar, storekeeper and one of two surviving "eight day men" will be among those who will quit. There were 21 eight day men who escaped death in the burning mine by walling themselves off. Rescuers reached them on the eighth day.

Mining is said to have been Cherry's only activity. But even if the shafts are closed and the sound of the pick is stilled, the town will not be forgotten. A stone memorial at the ill-fated mine is to mark forever the site of a disaster which is credited with having prepared the public mind throughout the nation for employers' liability and workmen's compensation laws.

Drink Water If Back or Kidneys Hurt

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day.

That "Bus" Needs a New Spring Top

The old one has well earned its original cost. It now undoubtedly looks shabby and worn—entirely out of keeping with the new cars to be seen this coming touring season.

Also equip that new car you're going to buy with seat covers. Then your upholstery will always have that "dressy" appearance.
